

Red peace envoy assails GOP plank on Vietnam

PARIS (AP) — North Vietnam assailed Republican presidential nominee Richard M. Nixon today and denounced as "unrealistic" the Republican party's platform statement on conditions for ending the Vietnamese war.

Nguyen Thanh Le, spokesman of the North Vietnamese delegation to the Paris peace talks, also lashed President Johnson and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey with the charge that they have intensified "the war of aggression."

Le volunteered his comments on the Republican party and its nominee at a news conference and indicated he might have something to say about the Democrats after they have produced their platform and chosen a candidate in their convention at the end of this month.

The North Vietnamese sally into U.S. domestic politics seemed designed to underscore their insistence that no progress can be made in the peace talks unless the United States unconditionally halts all attacks on their territory.

Le stressed this contention and a Hong Kong dispatch quoted the Hanoi newspaper Nhan

Dan, official North Vietnamese publication, as hammering the same point, saying "there can be no discussions on any other matters" until all attacks on the north are halted.

Speculation that the Johnson administration is considering among diplomats here, even though the official line from Washington recently has called anew for assurances that the North Vietnamese also would show military restraint.

In the peace talks, the next session of which is set for Wednesday, U.S. officials are interested in the imminent return here of Le Duc Tho from Hanoi. Tho, a member of the Politburo of the North Vietnamese Communist party, served in the delegation here for a time, then went back to Hanoi for consultations. His return could mean new instructions for the delegation. But if Hanoi leaders intend any change in tactics or policy there has been no evidence of it in North Vietnam's public declarations.

Nixon to spend $5 million

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Republican presidential nominee Richard M. Nixon, refreshed from 14 hours of sleep, began mapping plans Monday to spend $5 million and enlist 5 million workers to win votes from Democrats and independents.

Nixon, accompanied by his running mate, Gov. Spiro Agnew of Maryland, took time out from strategy talks and walked along blue Mission Bay, posing for photographers.

Nixon, looking relaxed, told how he slept only 12 hours in the three days following his nomination Thursday.

"Last night (Sunday) I went to bed at 5 p.m. and slept for 14 hours and slept like a kid," Nixon told Agnew.

The former vice president's plan for an intensive effort to win Democrats and independents—a majority of the voters—was announced by Charles S. Rhyne, national chairman of United Citizens for Nixon-Agnew.

Rhyne said one million campaigners already have signed up.

Tom Evans, national director of the citizens' group, said it plans to go into Negro areas and set up extensive precinct organizations.

Rhyne said "there are large numbers" of Negroes in Nixon's campaign organization. In response to a question, he said, "What is a large I can't exactly tell you."

The citizens group will set up state organizations ranging from 500,000 workers in California and 100,000 in New York to 10,000 in Vermont and some of the smaller states.

Evans is a member of Nixon's New York law firm. Rhyne is a Duke Law School classmate of Nixon's and a Washington lawyer who successfully argued the historic legislative reapportionment case before the U.S. Supreme Court.

U.S. Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., is expected to join the strategy planners and is scheduled to meet with newsmen today.

Maddox still mulls candidacy

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP) — Gov. Lester Maddox of Georgia, sounding like a candidate already stumping for votes, announced Monday he is giving serious consideration to seeking the Democratic presidential nomination.

Maddox called a news conference to make the announcement and said he would reach a firm decision by Saturday.

The Georgia governor declared that if he does decide to run, "I would be the only Democrat seeking the office on the Democratic ticket."

Maddox, who gained nationwide publicity by closing his cafeteria rather than serve Negroes, said the three candidates presently seeking the Democratic nomination are not true Democrats.

He described their philosophy as being the same as the "A.D.A. philosophy and I can find no difference between this and the Communist program for America."

The Georgia governor referred to the Americans for Democratic Action, of which Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey was the founder.

Neither Sen. Eugene McCarthy nor Sen. George McGovern offers Democrats an alternative from what he described as the Socialist philosophy.

Three killed, 45 wounded during Los Angeles riot

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Caravans of shotgun-carrying police patrolled the rubble-strewn streets of Watts Monday after a night of shooting and arson on the anniversary of the 1965 rioting. Three Negro men were killed and 45 others — including six policemen — were wounded or injured.

"We hope it's over but we're ready for any change," a police spokesman said, as calm returned after five hours of sporadic gun battles between Negroes and police.

The arrest late Sunday night of a Negro woman on a drunk driving charge touched off disturbances which petered out with the dawn.

When she was hauled kicking and screaming into a squad car, a crowd gathered and started throwing rocks and bottles at the arresting officers, who called for reinforcements.

As 60 more officers arrived, gunfire suddenly came from among a crowd of several thousand persons who were leaving a park at the close of the Watts Summer Festival, an annual event commemorating the 1965 rioting which cost 34 lives and $40 million damage.

Festival sponsors say the event, held annually, is designed to prove that something constructive could come out of the 1965 riot.

One of the officers said, "We saw a lot of people being hit. They shot into their own crowd."

Richard Lishey, in his 30s, staggered into the Watts police substation.

"I was shot," he said, "just down the street there." He collapsed and died a moment later.

The other fatalities were identified only as Willie Callahan and Harold MacLaughlin.

The policemen were not seriously hurt. Five were hit by shotgun pellets, the other struck on the head by a thrown object.

In the battle in the park, one officer said, "we were almost over-run." Later a nearby police substation was besieged and police estimated 1,000 shots were fired at the building.

Police Lt. Lew Ritter said "the attack on the substation was apparently planned and the firing in the park was definitely planned."

Police Chief Tom Reddin credited the department's mobilization plans—2,000 police were ordered to duty throughout the city—with ending the violence quickly.

About 1,000 persons at the airport shouted, "Dubeck, Dubeck," without a single mention of Ulbricht. Only one East German flag flew at the airport.

"I am happy about the friendly invitation," Ulbricht told the Czechoslovaks on arrival. "I don't have to introduce the delegation. You know them from Bratislava"—site of recent conciliatory talks among East European Communist nations.

East German propaganda against Czechoslovakia has been muted since the meeting at Bratislava Aug. 3.

The official Czechoslovak news agency CTK said the talks ended at 8 p.m. and that Ulbricht and his delegation would go home today. A communique was expected then.

Informed sources said the meeting took place at Ulbricht's initiative. Ulbricht was believed to have been one of the main initiators of the campaign against the Czechoslovak reform movement.

Ulbricht given cool reception

KARLOVY VARY, Czechoslovakia (AP) — East German Communist Chief Walter Ulbricht wound up a one-day conference with Czechoslovak reformist leaders Monday with little to show except a broadly worded agreement on increased economic cooperation.

Czechoslovak crowds treated him icily. The conference apparently left the two Communist leaderships as wide apart as ever on how liberal a Communist party should be.

Arriving by air in this west Bohemian spa, the East German Communist chief was met by Alexander Dubcek, the Czechoslovak party leader who less than two weeks ago was a target of East Germany's propaganda barrages.

About 1,000 persons at the airport shouted, "Dubeck, Dubeck," without a single mention of Ulbricht. Only one East German flag flew at the airport.

"I am happy about the friendly invitation," Ulbricht told the Czechoslovaks on arrival. "I don't have to introduce the delegation. You know them from Bratislava"—site of recent conciliatory talks among East European Communist nations.

Indonesia gets tough with Reds

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — The army reported Monday it has struck hard blows at resurgent Indonesian Communists in East Java and Borneo but the outlawed party is stirring up new unrest in Sumatra.

Maj. Gen. Mohammed Jasir, commander in East Java, told reporters 1,400 Communists, including six Central Committee members, have been captured in the past two months in his troubled region.

Jasir did not say how many Communists have been killed, but other reports have said casualties among the Red underground have been heavy.

About 6,000 troops, including commando and armored units, have been conducting a massive sweep of East Java, long a Communist stronghold.

Indonesia's army commander, Gen. Maraden Panggabean, told a meeting of the cabinet that troops have killed 392 Communist guerrillas and captured 209 in Indonesian Borneo so far this year.

The Communists were active in Borneo when President Sukarno, who was stripped of his last vestige of power last year, was conducting a military confrontation against Malaysia. When the government of President Suharto ended the confrontation, the guerrillas turned on the government.

Justice won't oppose Clark

PITTSBURGH (AP) — State Supreme Court Justice Michael A. Musmanno, citing a higher responsibility to the court, announced Monday he will not run for the U.S. Senate on the Constitutional Party ticket.

In a telegram to Andrew Watson of Harrisburg, party chairman, Musmanno said his decision was dictated by the fact he is next in line as chief justice of the Supreme Court.

Bikini Atoll, site of more than 20 nuclear tests between 1946 and 1958, is once again safe for human habitation, the White House announced Monday. Here, an underwater atom bomb blast goes off over the atoll on Aug. 25, 1946. The White House said plans are underway to permit the people of Bikini to return to their home atoll in the Pacific. They were moved in 1946 when the U. S. decided to use Bikini for atomic tests.

Irked by air service, Hughes may buy line

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Multi-millionaire Howard Hughes, Nev. (AP) — Multi-millionaire Howard Hughes offered Monday to buy Air West Airlines for as much as $80 million because, aides said, he doesn't like its service to Las Vegas.

If the purchase is approved by stockholders and the Civil Aeronautics Board, it would be Hughes' first airline venture since he sold his Trans-World Airline stock in 1966 for about $500 million.

In Seattle, Wash., Air West Chairman Nick Bez said he and "others representing a substantial amount of stock" would support a $22-a-share offer from Hughes. Air West has 3.7 million shares outstanding, which figures out to about $80 million at $22 a share.

In New York, David R. Grace, chairman of the Air West executive committee, said he and other officers don't consider the price high enough.

In San Francisco, company president G. Robert Henry agreed with Grace and added, "We also have substantial doubts that the CAB would approve."

The firm was formed recently from the merger of Bonanza, Pacific and West Coast airlines. Air West is the only carrier between Phoenix, Ariz., and Las Vegas and between Las Vegas and Reno, Nev.

Hughes officials said he wants to improve passenger service to and from Las Vegas, where he has acquired vast holdings.

Complaints of delayed flights have been blamed by Air West officials on computer problems.

Edmund Converse, vice chairman for the company, denied there was substantial stockholder support for the Hughes purchase.

"It appears there will be a fight over this matter," he said. "We do not feel that this move is to the best advantage of Air West or the public we serve."

Air West's regular stockholders meeting will be in San Francisco Oct. 14.

Hughes, 62, became a big airline stockholder in the 1930s when he started buying TWA stock at an initial investment of $2 million. He had to share ownership with others, however, and they filed suits accusing him of mismanagement.

Hughes finally sold out, then moved his empire to Las Vegas, where he has spent an estimated $150 million on five casinos, one television station, two airports and extensive property.

He tried to buy controlling interest in American Broadcasting Co. for $148 million last month but was opposed by company officials and bowed out.

LBJ's x-rays flown to two hospitals

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson went through more hospital tests for an intestinal ailment Monday. X-rays were flown to Washington, D. C., and Rochester, Minn., for study by his Navy doctor and his Mayo specialist.

White House press secretary George Christian attempted to dispel any idea of serious concern over Johnson's condition.

"The President is feeling fine," he said. "He is carrying on an active schedule."

The President has a chronic case of diverticulosis, a disorder characterized by small pouches in the lining of the large intestine and ordinarily not considered unduly serious. Although it seldom is needed, aides never have crossed off surgery as a possibility for Johnson, depending on what the X-rays show.

The President made his third 75-mile helicopter trip from his ranch to Brooke Army Hospital in San Antonio and spent 75 minutes there. For 48 hours he had been on a liquid diet.

Christian said, "The radiographs taken today will be sent to (Vice) Adm. George Burkley at Bethesda hospital and Dr. James Cain at the Mayo Clinic for comparison with those taken during previous years."

A careful comparison obviously is in the offing, with any announcement of the results or a course of treatment hinging on the findings.

Burkley is the White House physician. Cain is an internist to whom Johnson has been turning ever since a severe heart attack in 1955.

Johnson's present ailment has been showing up during annual physical examinations since 1960. But there was no announcement of this for eight years until the President made the second of his three visits to Brooke Army Medical Center last week.

Christian told questioning newsmen that procedures this year were very little different from those in earlier years.

Last week's X-rays were not as clear as in the past, he said, and new ones were taken to get clearer ones for comparative purposes.

Cain has checked the X-rays in previous years, as he is doing this year, Christian said.

"Can you say flatly," a reporter asked, "whether the procedure followed this year reflects any new or significant concern on the part of his doctors about the condition of the President's health?"

LBJ's son-in-law may see plenty of war action

PHAN RANG, Vietnam (AP) — Airman 1c, Patrick J. Nugent, President Johnson's son-in-law, is in training for a new job that should let him see a good deal of South Vietnam, including where the action is.

Nugent, who arrived in Vietnam April 13 for a one-year tour, is stationed at the U.S. Air Force Base at Phan Rang, on the central coast, 175 miles northeast of Saigon.

He's a member of the 309th Special Operations Squadron, in training to be a loadmaster on the Air Force's C123, a twin-engine prop plane that carries cargo and men to all parts of the country.

The second phase of his training, called on-job training or OJT by the military, began in the middle of July. Nugent is flying as an apprentice loadmaster on C123s making hops all over Vietnam, and possibly to Thailand and Laos.

A fully qualified loadmaster accompanies him on each of the trips until mid-September, when Nugent will be fully qualified.

Information about Nugent's exact whereabouts on the base, and about his flights, is classified. At his request, the Air Force has kept newsmen away.

This is Nugent's second job in Vietnam. His reserve unit, the 113th Tactical Fighter Wing, was called to active duty last February during the crisis over North Korea's seizure of the USS Pueblo. Nugent applied for air base in Vietnam, where the President's other son-in-law, Marine Capt. Charles Robb, also is serving.

His first assignment was as a bombardier at Cam Ranh Bay air base. But Nugent asked for a transfer,

Vulcans arrested in Luzerne

LUZERNE, Pa. (AP) — A weekend of rowdiness by a Binghamton, N.Y., based motorcycle gang has resulted in the arrest of 18 persons on charges of disorderly conduct, motor code violations and one of carrying a concealed weapon.

Police said alleged acts of terrorism by the Vulcans apparently stemmed from a club initiation carried out in a rented house in this Luzerne County town.

The alleged terrorism began about 11 p.m. Saturday. Luzerne Mayor Edward Kulka put police on emergency standby basis when a threat was made that 100 motorcyclists would "come in and really do the job."

An alleged threat to burn the town brought police down on the gang.

Charged with disorderly conduct were Joseph Holland, Wyoming; Martin Seitz, Luzerne; Anthony Skokackas, Endicott, N.Y.; Gerald Brown, Johnson City, N.Y.; Joseph Cassin, Endicott, N.Y.; Salvatore Destefano, Endicott; William L. Starkew, Old Forge; Edward Ziga, Dickson City; Leona Nossek, Duryea; John Yurina, Johnson City; Geraldine Hackling, Luzerne; George Dunham, Binghamton; Monica Fiatco, Endicott; and Edward Dzielak, Scranton. Another man who refused to give his name was charged on a John Doe warrant.

Motor code violations were lodged against John Camp, Endicott, and Arlene Mudry, Endicott. Timothy Maher, Endicott, was charged with concealing a deadly weapon.

Police said the incident apparently stemmed from a club initiation being carried out in a rented home in Luzerne.

Missing cop may have taken trip

MONESSEN, Pa. (AP) — Police said Monday there was some chance that an officer who disappeared after his life was threatened may have taken a long vacation.

The officer, Joseph Ezze Jr., took a change of clothes and some extra money when he left home Thursday night, ostensibly to go to work, Chief Michael Kuvinka said.

Pittsburgh police suspected foul play when they found Ezze's truck in the city over the weekend. Inside was a newspaper clipping with a scribbled note: "You'll find your husband at the bottom of the river with a heavy load. Ha! Ha!"

The news story described how Ezze shot an 18-year-old youth during an attempted burglary in May. The youth later died. Since then, Ezze's wife said, he had received telephone calls from people who threatened to kill him or burn his house down.

Chief Kuvinka said the clipping belonged to Ezze. He said he didn't identify the handwriting.

Ezze, a 12-year veteran of the force with five children, had been reported sick Wednesday and Thursday nights. Thursday was his last day of work before beginning a vacation that is to last until Aug. 21.

Rep. Holland given military rites

Solon who helped poor dies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Elmer J. Holland, D-Pa., who died of a heart attack Friday, was termed Monday a man eager "to help other people who are unprepared" to earn a living.

The praise came from the Rev. Paul Norton, who celebrated a Requiem Mass for the 74-year-old congressman at St.

Peter's Roman Catholic Church, just one block from Holland's home here.

Holland, who died while en route to a hospital from his summer home in Bay Ridge, Md., was a chief framer of the Manpower Development and Training Act of 1962.

He was buried with full military honors in Arlington National Cemetery after a one-hour church service attended by about 200 friends, House colleagues and relatives.

"We hope that in his death more of us will grow to become more concerned, just as he was," Father Norton said of Holland's efforts to help the American labor movement.

A 12-man delegation of Pennsylvania congressmen and Pittsburgh Mayor Joseph Barr served as honorary pallbearers. Holland represented a section of Allegheny County, Pa., in the House since 1956. He previously was in the House for a short term in 1942.

Those serving as pallbearers included Reps. William S. Moorhead, D; Fred Rooney, D; Edward G. Biester Jr., R; and John Dent, D.

Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., was represented by Milton Jacques, an aide. His office said later Clark was vacationing at Jackson Hole, Wyo., and that telegrams requesting his services as an honorary pallbearer didn't arrive at his office until early Monday.

Holland was the ranking member of the House Education and Labor Committee and supported the 35-hour work week, federal aid to education and improvement of working conditions in government agencies.

He suffered a stroke two years ago and wasn't seeking re-election.

The Pittsburgh-born congressman was educated at Duquesne University and at the University of Montpelier in France and the American School Center in England. He entered politics in 1934 after a career in the glass industry.

He is survived by his widow, Emily, and two daughters.

Rooney's aides probing contract

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy and Government Accounting Office are investigating the award of an "emergency" contract for breechblock locks for 20 mm aircraft cannon, aides of Rep. Fred B. Rooney, D-Pa., said Monday.

Rooney in an Aug. 1 House speech called for the dual probe of what he said was the "gross misuse of defense procurement procedures by the Navy Ships Parts Control Center of Mechanicsburg, Pa."

He said one contract, awarded under routine procedures, called for the manufacture of 2,400 breechblock locks at $34.75 a lock. The contract was given to the Newbould Tool Co. of York, Pa.

Then, he said, a second contract was awarded a month later to American Machine and Foundry, York, Pa., for the same locks at $97.13. He said this was termed an "emergency" contract by the Navy.

"This little scheme—and my investigation convinces me that a scheme was involved — will cost American taxpayers $118,780 for a padded contract," he told the House.

His office said the Navy-GAO probe will seek to determine why the Navy's procurement office at York awarded the emergency contract to AMF "at a price nearly three times the routine contract" awarded the Newbould firm.

Park Service digs out Kittatinny House

DELAWARE WATER GAP — National Park Service workmen are excavating the foundation of the old — and "new" — Kittatinny House which was a thriving 275 room hotel just outside Delaware Water Gap Borough.

Albert Dillahunty, historian for the Delaware Water Gap National Recreation Area, said that the foundations are being excavated to determine just how large the hotel was.

Parking and viewing area
The National Park Service will construct a parking area at the site of the former Kittatinny Hotel to accommodate 25 cars. The area, now called resort point, has long been a popular tourist attraction.

Excavation, Dillahunty said, began about one week ago. Workmen to date have excavated two corners of the mammoth hotel which was constructed in 1829 by Anthony Dutot. The building wasn't finished by Dutot and was purchased in 1832 by Samuel Snyder who then enlarged and completed it.

Accommodating 25 guests, Snyder opened the hotel in 1833. William A. Brodhead rented the hotel in 1841 and purchased it 10 years later. He enlarged it at that time to accommodate 60 persons.

In 1853, according to the National Park Service historic narrative, Brodhead enlarged the hotel further to accommodate a total 75 guests.

The Kittatinny House continued to expand and by 1866 could accommodate 200 guests.

"It was reportedly rebuilt in 1884 to accommodate 275 guests," the National Park Service narrative contained.

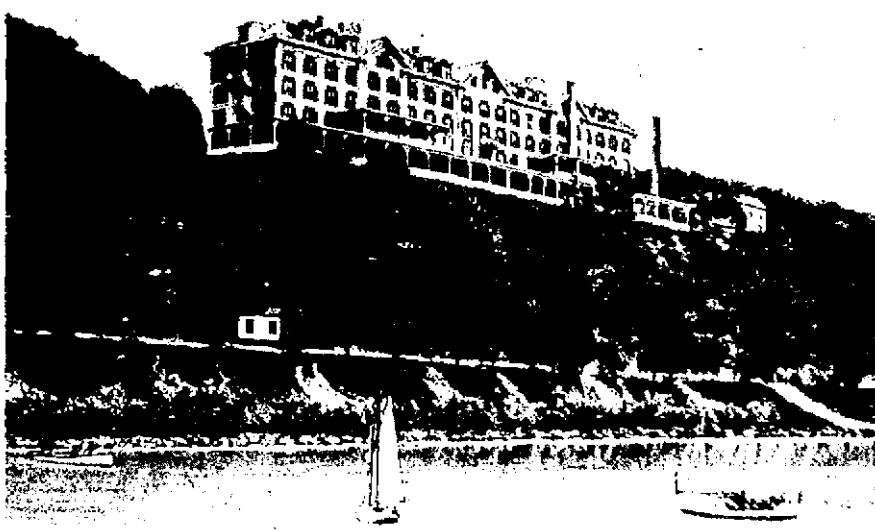

"During 1891-1892 apparently a major structural change occurred, for at that time the last of the original Kittatinny House disappeared, and the proprietors began referring to the place as the New Kittatinny. A publicity article of the time describes the resort as having 'bedrooms large, airy, and tastefully furnished; a number on suite with bath and private balconies,'" the National Park Service book relates.

The new Kittatinny House also contained an elevator, gas, electric bells and orchestra. It had steam heat.

Numerous prominent persons such as Generals McClellan, Patterson, Heintzelman, George W. Childs, Louis A. Godey stayed there.

The Kittatinny House was purchased in 1902 by a Mr. Leeds and Mr. Lippincott who owned Haddon Hall in Atlantic City, N. J. The hotel was refurbished and golf links were added.

The hotel burned to the ground Oct. 30, 1931, and was never reconstructed.

The Kittatinny House, after its several additions and renovations appeared as pictured above. The picture was taken about 1910. Two New Jersey tourists, at right, look out over the Delaware Water Gap Toll Bridge on the site of the old hotel. The tourists are Lester Wagner and Pauline Roncaroni, both of Phillipsburg, N. J.

Bushkill properties target for acquisition in 1968-69

BUSHKILL — Real estate officials from the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers are currently appraising properties within the village of Bushkill which will be inundated by the Tocks Island Reservoir.

B. E. Upschulte, project coordinator, said that the Corps of Engineers hopes to acquire a large portion of Bushkill within the current federal 1968-69 fiscal year.

Congress recently appropriated $3.3 million for land acquisition within the Tocks Island Reservoir area for the current fiscal year.

Upschulte said the Corps of Engineers also hopes to acquire land as far as Pocono Island, which is located between Tocks and Depeu Islands in the Delaware River.

Stark reminder

Appearance of appraisers within the village of Bushkill was a stark reminder for its residents that in the future — exactly when is still uncertain — that their village will no longer exist.

Federal officials previously said that Bushkill, by 1971 will be doomed, but this deadline has been pushed back due to the government's austerity program.

Nevertheless, according to Upschulte, the Corps of Engineers has hopes of taking numerous parcels of land within the village government property by July 1, 1969.

There are a total of 94 parcels of land which the Corps of Engineers must appraise and then begin what at times becomes lengthy negotiation procedures with the property owners.

Officials in the Corps of Engineers Real Estate Office in East Stroudsburg, were not certain exactly how many property owners are involved with the acquisition of the 94 parcels. Upschulte said, however, that there are several owners for some in addition to one man owning several parcels.

Spotlights master plan

The announcement by Upschulte adds more impetus on the Lehman Township Master Plan which the Board of Supervisors had adopted unanimously several months ago.

The township's Master Plan contains a blue print for a new relocated Bushkill.

Rick DePue, secretary of the Lehman Township Planning Commission, said Monday that the Corps of Engineers previously told township officials that residents within the village will be allowed to remain until construction for the Tocks Island Dam reaches such a point where moving will be necessary.

The Corps of Engineers, as a usual procedure, allows residents to lease back land and buildings which have been acquired for the project until the time comes when the land will actually be needed.

Ever since acquisition began, the federal government had been attempting to speed up the property purchases due to the inflated land values within the project area.

DePue said that officials and residents seemed gratified to learn that they would be allowed to remain within the project area until the dam has been completed.

Fearful ghost town

DePue said local officials feared that Bushkill would become a ghost town between the acquisition period and actual construction of the dam.

Township officials, at the time they adopted the Master Plan, also feared that residents whose property would be acquired would just move out of the area and not relocate within the township or the proposed new Bushkill.

DePue seemed to indicate that with the lease-back arrangement, residents would remain in the village until the Master Plan could be implemented.

Many residents indicated that they would relocate into the new Bushkill when the time comes.

Local officials are currently negotiating with federal and state representatives on a proposed new road system within the township which forms the nucleus of the new Bushkill.

New Bushkill

The new Bushkill is located almost in the center of Lehman Township in the vicinity — adjacent in some portions — to the Bushkill Rod and Gun Club and Pine Ridge properties.

The federal government is required to replace all public facilities which will be engulfed within the Tocks Island Reservoir and related Delaware Water Gap National Recreation Area.

The Corps of Engineers, therefore, is required to replace a total 131,760 feet of road within the township.

The township's Master Plan proposes a new township route which would serve the new Bushkill. The new road will be an extension of Traffic Route 330 from its intersection with Traffic Route 305 north to Route 51003 and then continue through Lehman Township, Route 51003, which ends at Lake Maskenozha, is also proposed to be extended west to Route 510031.

Planning Commission members previously said that the proposed road network is imperative for a new Bushkill. Without the road network, there would be no new Bushkill.

Lehman Township officials have been given an assurance from the Corps of Engineers that Route 330 would be extended. The remaining local road network, however, is still a matter of debate.

Rev. Adan Bohner views life with love as the first order

By FRED WALTER
Pocono Record Reporter

KUNKLETOWN — Every man, especially a youth, yearns after various paths in life and frequently takes the very one he never quite felt to be his own and so, each man develops his own pattern for life.

Most of the patterns might be considered standard, some of them are copies of mixed shades, but then there are always those that ingeniously combine some intangible qualities that makes them universally appealing and personally receptive.

It is the rational element in man that makes any man human, yet it is this added, omniscient element which will make many men confide in one, to be led, to be counseled, to be admired.

Profound in thought

Any community is fortunate to share its values with this "man" and before us is the profile of a singular person, simple in manner and action, yet profound in thought.

We single out the name and indelible companionship of the Reverend Mr. Adan A. Bohner, pastor emeritus of the Former, four church charge of the churches of the United Church of Christ in Kunkletown, Saylorsburg, Brodheadsville and Hamilton Square.

Rev. Bohner first came to Kunkletown as a seminary student from Lancaster. The people wanted him and so he stayed to share his love for life with them.

Before the ministry though, the young Bohner decided to try teaching after graduating from Susquehanna University, but it was a short stay at Phillipsburg High School, teaching chemistry and science.

Bored in teaching

"I was not challenged enough and was bored in teaching the same lesson day in and out. I had strong thoughts for the ministry before and so I entered the seminary of the Reformed Church of United States, now the United Church of Christ."

"I was curious about life. I wanted to know every part of it and so I prepared myself for the world and the people," he said.

The wealth of a man is the man himself and Rev. Bohner has made it his source of wealth to know the world in its entirety, with eyes wide open to view it, with a curious mind to comprehend it and a ready heart to love it. That is how he has been able to guide people, who are fearful of becoming lost in it.

Born and raised in part of the Mahan Tingo Valley in Shannokin the memories have multiplied for Rev. Bohner in his three-score and ten years.

Story of life

In his interpretation and teachings of religious thought, Rev. Bohner is able to tell the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Adan A. Bohner depart the Hamilton United Church of Christ of his former charge. The pastor emeritus returned to give the morning services on Sunday.

whole story of life and development of "the person", without separation, but with application to the person from moments of revelation.

Application and endurance, a joyful heart — these are the fundamental, foundational forces reflected in Rev. Bohner's thoughts, in the search for happiness in life and in preparation for a fearless death.

There is still a place to be practical too which is so evident in the life of Rev. and Mrs. Bohner and the strength they reflect that lies in the simple and modest life they have led, rearing a daughter and a son.

The interior of the home has been completely crafted by the hands of Rev. Bohner, furnishings and all. This is what makes a man really see himself as a man.

Religious impression

"The early Christian laymen and ministers were most instrumental in teaching the first settlers who were isolated from the more populated settlement," Rev. Bohner said as he remembers the impression of religion in early America when the Reformed and Lutherans came together in this area for "mutual aid" in civilizing some of our own backward folk.

"Love is still the first order; love is the necessary element in the diet of life from the beginning and throughout," Rev. Bohner continues to say and "it is a pity when we continue to blame others for disorder and defeat and falsely try to picture ourselves as the more perfect of the lot."

Grown men's shame

Rev. Bohner cited such shame when he referred to "those grown men who are supposed to be our leaders, carrying on in such fashion during the political convention in Miami Beach. Why did they not say 'we are also to blame.'"

"And right here in the four communities which I still serve, I have tried to tell them, now that you have your own 'united' school in Pleasant Valley, why not do the same with your church," Rev. Bohner expounded and added:

"But I have learned too, that deep-down, people no matter who they are, really have a goodness of heart within and a willingness to do right."

Joyce's plan may be answer

We favor a plan made public by Thomas R. Joyce, Monroe County Treasurer, on Friday, by which either the movement of the Monroe County Courthouse, or a complete renovation of the structure, could be made much less painful for all concerned.

Joyce recommends the retention of a one-mill tax which is due to expire this year and which was levied to pay for an addition to Pleasant Valley Manor.

The size of the tax on an individual basis is a painless matter. But, according to figures compiled by Joyce, the funds, if placed in an escrow building account, would amount to $500,000 in five years.

Under this plan, Monroe County would have to borrow only $700,000 to complete either of the recommended programs, providing the cost was in the neighborhood of $1.2 million.

A recent space analysis recommendation was broken down into two parts. One recommends an entirely new courthouse complex on Ann St., as part of an urban renewal project for Stroudsburg. The other plan calls for a complete renovation of the courthouse at its present location.

Those who are charged with planning and approving the two projects would do well to weigh the credibility of Joyce's plan.

Under Joyce's recommendation the county commissioners would maintain complete control of the project and the needed funds could be borrowed at a much lower rate of interest.

If the $700,000 would be repaid over a period of seven years, the entire total including interest, would be one million dollars. The savings with this plan would almost amount to approximately one million dollars.

The suggestion certainly has merit and deserves serious consideration.

$1.5 million dividend

Pennsylvania Constitutional revision paid a dividend the other day—$1.5 million.

The $1.5 million didn't materialize all at once, in one lump sum.

It will accrue gradually in the state's 1958-1969 fiscal year as the Shafer Administration borrows money for capital improvements — college dormitories, prisons, mental institutions, bridges and highways.

The $1.5 million savings came about this way:

The men who wrote the 1874 Constitution abhorred borrowing and did everything possible to keep the state from engaging in this "imprudent...extravagant practice."

What they did: barred the state from pledging its "Full Faith and Credit"—in just those words, its full taxing power, to the redemption of state bonds, issued to satisfy 20th-Century capital needs which 19th-Century Constitution writers could hardly have foreseen.

Without that pledge bond-buyers were skittish; they fancied themselves taking a chance on Pennsylvania securities despite the fact that the state was obligated to redeem whatever bonds it issued.

Since the bond-buyers saw themselves taking a chance, they wanted a higher rate of interest on the money they were lending the state—another $3,360 on every million.

The Constitutional Convention last winter put Full Faith and Credit back to working for the state—and the taxpayers.

This wiped out the extra $3,360 per million. When Governor Shafer signed the first authorization for new borrowing since the convention, $527 million in the 1958-1969 year, he was, in effect, depositing $1.5 million to the taxpayers' account.

It represented the first dollar payoff from reform of the fiscal articles in the 1874 Constitution.

September's schedule shows some three issues Sept. 11: The Walt Disney at Marcelline, Mo., the Tercentenary of Marquette Explorations, Sept. 20, at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich; and Sept. 25 Daniel Boone in the Folklore Series at Frankford, Ky. 11 are six cent commemoratives.

The United Nations will release a set of six and 20 cent values Sept. 19 for World Weather Watch. Following these issues the schedule calls for six more to be released in October.

The post office has agreed to issue only 15 commemoratives during any one year but this year they are away over their "Quota."

Of course the new regular issues and postcard and air mail letter sheets do not count in this estimate.

Unsecret weapon

MIAMI BEACH — One big plus for Republican victory in November emerged from this convention.

It is this: The Republicans will go into the campaign effectively united against a deeply disunited Democratic party.

It is usually the opposite.

Today Republican leaders smile at each other. Democratic leaders snarl at each other.

This time there are no bitter personal rivalries, no great rifts in the Republican ranks.

It is a double asset for the GOP because there are bitter rivalries and painful rifts in the Democratic ranks and there is little prospect that the Chicago convention can do other than increase them.

Sure, this has been a dull, crisis-free convention—and how the Republicans loved it.

The press was restless and impatient. They could hardly find an angry delegate. Rarely was a voice lifted to shout, "You're another." Reporters were pretty frustrated.

Party unity and party harmony weren't their kind of news; they could scarcely find anything else. Unity is pretty dull stuff. And how the Republicans loved it.

News made

But unity and harmony are news and that news was made here at Miami Beach.

It is a commodity which has often been in short supply for the GOP, especially when it has gone into a Presidential election as the party out of power and that has been most of the time since 1932.

It is easy to remember back to 1964 when the nomination of Barry Goldwater tore the party apart, drove many powerful Republicans either into exile or into silence and brought disaster.

But Republican disunity goes much farther back than that.

There was continuous infighting between the professionals and the amateurs in the Wilkie campaign. Dewey never really united the party in either 1944 or 1948. In 1952 the Taft supporters deliberately worked to defeat Senator Henry Cabot Lodge because he had been pre-convention campaign manager for Eisenhower and they never threw themselves into the task of aiding Ike, although Senator Taft himself did not condone such a spoiler attitude.

This year it is different, far different. There have been contests and contentions, but they have left no unhealed wounds in their wake. There were some differences over the platform but they were compromised in good spirit. No Republican booed another when he went to speak from the convention hall rostrum as they heckled and hissed Rockefeller and shouted down Romney four years ago.

This means that the whole Republican party will be able to go into the coming campaign far more united and at peace with itself than at any time since President Eisenhower can for reelection 12 years ago.

This means that there will be no major sullen or silent Republican voice all across the party spectrum from Reagan to Rockefeller, from Senator Tower to Mayor Lindsay, from Javits to Dirksen.

Obviously this kind of solid and buoyant party united does not insure winning in November. But it is going to be a source of campaign strength relatively new to the GOP in Presidential elections.

When the Republican party had bitter fights over policy or over candidates, it has proved very hard to get over them and join forces afterward.

This time the Republican avoided the problem entirely by not having any significant fights at all in the convention.

Usually the Democrats have shown a kind of political professionalism which has enabled them to tear at each other up to and during the convention and then turn their ire entirely against the GOP enemy in the campaign.

But this year it doesn't look so likely. The divisions within the Democrats are deep and personal, emotional and ideological.

This suggests that the Republicans have achieved a level of party unity when it can do them the most good. They may or may not win this election, but they are not going to throw it away.

Word for it, always

WASHINGTON — One of my neighbors here is Dr. Albert F. Sisson, the author of "The Unabridged Crossword Puzzle Dictionary," which is published by Doubleday & Co. and enjoys a four-letter word meaning wealth.

He has produced also a volume entitled "Sisson's Word and Expression Locator" (Prentice-Hall). This is a reference system he invented. It's a way of starting with the meaning, or general idea of a word, and then finding the actual word you're trying to recall.

For instance, there is a word meaning, "Hater of tobacco smoke." The word is "misocapsinist." (I'll bet it was right on the tip of your tongue.)

Public office

A word one should hear all the time in Washington but, strangely enough, is never heard, is "emphlemania." According to the "Word Locator," this means "a mania for holding public office." And all I can say is, there certainly is a lot of emphlemania going around these days.

I'm surprised that more of our book reviewers have not employed "entwicklungsroman." This is the word for a novel that develops a character from childhood to maturity.

Of course, you probably know that the age of trees can be computed by counting the rings in the trunk, but did you know there was a word for the rather simple science of tree-ring counting? It's "dendrochronology." (I'll be darned, I once got a merit badge in that!)

Dr. Sisson even has a word, "floccinaucinihilipilification," which is not in Webster's Unabridged Dictionary. It was used in something Sir Walter Scott wrote and has hardly ever been used since, the Webster editors told Sisson. And, oh, yes it means worthlessness.

The author has several words for me, the best of which is "anonymuncule," which means "insignificant writer."

And he has many words for himself. Among them are "lexiphantism," which means the pretentious use of recondite words and phrases; and "verbo-ontomatomania," which is the word for an uncontrollable obsession for words.

"I am just now completing, after nearly five years' work, my third and last book," Dr. Sisson said. "It is 'Sisson's Synonyms and Related Terms,' which will be published by Prentice-Hall. This will be the most complete book of synonyms ever compiled. As an example, for the adjective 'bad' I have 479 synonyms!"

It's amazing to me Dr. Sisson hasn't long ago developed "chirospasm," which is a word for writer's cramp.

What LBJ has is sort of a "caretaker" government. Now if only he would take more care!

Television coverage of the GOP convention was a little confusing. For awhile we thought Walter Cronkite won it on the first ballot.

For some republican officials it was a real pleasure to get out of the heat of Washington and down to Miami, where it was relatively cool.

Those three American fliers were pretty lucky to be released by Itanoi, and it they're really lucky, they'll never be asked to fly the TFX-111.

There are complaints that no women have served on the Supreme Court. If LBJ had really wanted trouble, he could have appointed a prominent woman lawyer — Mrs. Abe Fortas.

Air safety funds

John A. Goldsmith

WASHINGTON — Two near-tragic "near-misses," involving campaign planes of presidential candidates, are worrying political planners and federal authorities as the 1968 campaigning moves towards its busiest final phase.

The two incidents helped to dramatize air traffic problems and convince economy-minded Senate and House members that more money should be invested in airway safety. Additional funds, voted by congress before its convention recess, will not help this year, however.

Soon after Labor Day, chartered planes for Republican and Democratic candidates will begin their cross-country caravans. The third-party campaign of former Alabama Gov. George Wallace will be air-borne too, and, in the campaign's final stages, additional press planes, "truth squads" and the like will add to the congestion.

All of these campaign aircraft, most of them jets, will move on irregular schedules into airports, large and small, often at their busiest times. Over the campaign years, the air lines and the government's air traffic experts have managed these quadrennial problems without a serious hitch.

Two encounters

"Recently, however, Senators and House members were advised of two little-publicized encounters which might have made banner headlines. Reporting in closed session to the Senate-House conference committee on the $5.8 billion appropriation bill for the Department of Transportation, Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., said:

"At Lawrence, Kan., a light airplane at an airport without a control tower cut sharply in front of Gov. Nelson Rockefeller's plane as he was landing there to make a speech. The pilot skillfully averted an accident.

"While the late Sen. Robert Kennedy was campaigning on the west coast in the town of Roseburg, Ore., an airplane landed on the same runway as his plane but in the opposite direction, and they narrowly missed."

In addition to providing additional air traffic controllers, an action which highlighted by traffic slow-downs at major airports, Congress subsequently boosted from $70 million to $120 million the sum budgeted by President Johnson for facilities and equipment to improve air safety.

The additional sums will finance installations of different types of radar equipment and improvements for control towers at locations across the nation. Small, ill-equipped airports were earmarked for improved equipment along

Scene of sorrow

Sadness And Determination will mark the Southern Christian Leadership Conference to Memphis, where the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King was assassinated last April 4. Dr. King's widow will speak at a banquet at the annual convention on Thursday. Dr. King's successor, Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, will speak at a rally on Friday.

The session will be devoted largely to workshops, after an art and cultural program on Wednesday, the opening day. Leaders will be working out strategy for the coming year.

The SCLC is at a crossroads. The march on Washington last April produced little in the way of practical results. Resurrection City was a muddy shantytown near the Lincoln Memorial. The Washington press, according to William Raspberry, a Negro reporter, was "if anything...too kind" in reporting the troubles of the sloppy shambles.

Plagued from start

What was to have been a "new city of hope and love" was plagued from the beginning by hooliganism, unsanitary conditions approaching squalor, boredom, aimless demonstrations, chilling rain, and an increasing disarray among those who were supposed to organize. The top leadership of the SCLC was absent during the early days. Even after the leaders did arrive, some of them bedded down on bad weather nights in a nearby hotel, to the distinct annoyance of those in the Resurrection City mud.

Disputes spread among the leadership. Rev. Jesse Jackson, one of the more effective early leaders and the first manager of the encampment, was re-assigned to Chicago after a run-in with Rev. Abernathy. Abernathy said time and time again that if Resurrection City failed "America and not the poor citizens of Resurrection City will have failed."

Since the Resurrection City disappointment, Abernathy seems to have reassessed his leadership. He led a demonstration of 65 Poor People's Campaign Negroes at the Republican National Convention in Miami on Aug. 6 and succeeded in getting 50 convention tickets for his followers. A SCLC headquarters spokesman in Washington tells Editorial Research Reports that no challenge is expected at Memphis to Abernathy's presidency.

Abernathy has a tendency to be a good deal more militant than Dr. King was, in talks if not in deeds. Black Power advocate Stokely Carmichael called Dr. King "the one man in our race who was trying to teach our children to have love, compassion, and mercy for what white people had done."

"When white America killed Dr. King...she declared war on us," Carmichael told "a news conference. "The rebellions that have been occurring around these cities and this country is just light stuff to what is about to happen."

Of the five Negro movements, observes New South, a publication of the Southern Regional Council, two of the three which were "most militant, most activist"—the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee and the Congress and the Congress on Racial Equality—"have, with their Black Power strategy and dogma, broken away."

What transpires in Memphis will give a good indication of whether the SCLC will edge toward the side SNCC and CORE have adopted. Abernathy is hardly, as one Harvard professor of theology called Dr. King, "the theologian for our time."

Why is it more dangerous for an adult to develop mumps than a school-aged child?

Mumps is an inflammation and infection of the parotid gland which lies on either side of the face, in front of the ear. This gland is one of the larger of the salivary glands that produces saliva, so necessary for the very first step in the digestion of food.

Mumps is caused by a virus which has only recently been identified, thus permitting the manufacture of the new and successful vaccine. Occasionally, infection of the parotid gland is caused by bacteria. This condition is called non-specific infection of the parotid and presents symptoms which resemble, but are not truly mumps.

Mumps is such a common condition that it is accepted as an "unimportant childhood disease." It is not, however. I emphasize this because there can be some unpleasant complications of this routinely accepted childhood infection. For this reason, no child should be deprived of the advantages and protection of

with the over-taxed air terminals in large cities.

The final congressional action, however, was still $71 million short of the $191.5 million outlay recommended by the Federal Aviation Administration and initially approved by the Senate. Federal experts must now sort through the list of equipment needs across the nation to develop a $120 million listing of priority projects for immediate attention.

House pensions

Economy advocates in the House and Senate are sure they can pigeon-hole the committee-approved "double dip" pension bill to improve retirement provisions for members of congress. The bill will be ready for action in the House when congress goes back to work next month.

Under the plan retired (or defeated) members of Congress would be entitled to a pension equal to about $1,000 for each year of federal service, including military service and other non-Congressional time, up to 80 per cent of their full pay which is now $30,000. That would increase Congressional retirement pay by about one-third.

The catch is, however, that a pay raise for Congress will be almost automatic early next year. That would mean another immediate improvement in pension payments keyed to the new pay ceiling.

Rep. H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, is fighting the plan in the House. He has called the proposal "an effort to the American taxpayers" at a time when the taxpayers have just been ordered by Congress to ante up a 10 per cent surcharge on their income taxes.

Gross, an old hand at using the House rules to serve his purposes has given notice that he will demand a roll call vote on the pension bill. That would be very distasteful to House members, all of whom are up for reelection in the fall.

Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., a treasury watchdog with Senate credentials to match those of Gross in the House, is ready if the bill does reach the Senate. Williams said the bill, approved by the House Rules Committee, is "outrageous."

"There will be strong opposition to it in the Senate. It will not pass," says Williams, who notes that the Senate will have its hands full with other priority matters when it reconvenes in September.

Williams predicts that Senate leaders would not want to engage in a time consuming floor fight over boosting Congressional pensions at a time when Congressional campaigning is actually in progress.

Lester Coleman, M.D.

Readers are asking....

this safe, new method of immunization against it.

One of the complications of mumps in the child and in the adult is an inflammation of one or both testicles. Fortunately, infants and children rarely develop this. Adults are more prone to orchitis, or swelling of the testicle. A good many cases of sterility follow orchitis in adults, as a complication of mumps. The sperm-producing elements in the testicle are caused to degenerate and affect fertility. Only rarely are the ovaries in a child or adult inflamed or complicated by mumps.

Adults always "guess" that they may have had mumps without being positive. It is a great advantage for everyone to keep complete medical records of infectious diseases so that the guesswork is taken out of a person's history. The new mumps vaccine and a human gamma globulin is frequently used in adults who are exposed to the infection without definite knowledge that they had once had it. One attack of mumps almost always protects the individual against any further infection.

  - 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
  - 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
  - 1/2 teaspoon mace
  - 2 eggs, well beaten
  - 1 cup light cream

Bring the milk slowly to a boil in the top of a double boiler over direct heat. Slowly add 5 tablespoons of corn meal, stirring all the while. Put over boiling water and cook for 20 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add 2 tablespoons of butter, the sugar, and molasses. Remove from the fire and add salt, ginger, cinnamon, nutmeg, and mace. Blend in eggs. Put into a buttered baking dish. Bake uncovered in a slow oven at 300 degrees for 2 to 2 1/2 hours. Stir occasionally the first hour; then carefully pour 1 cup of cold cream over the top and finish baking without stirring. Serve hot or warm with cream or vanilla ice cream. Serves 8 to 10.

NOTE: One teaspoon of grated orange rind may be added, giving it a pleasant tang. The longer the pudding is cooked, the darker it gets and therefore the better.

Rimrock Country, housekeeping cottages near Bartonsville, has a different favorite recipe called Three Bean Salad. Kidney beans, yellow wax beans, and green beans are mixed with onion, green pepper, oil and seasonings, then marinated for 24 hours. The salad serves 8.

The word "golf" derives from the Dutch for club, kolf.

For leather weather

The leather-look is as important for little sister as for college-bound girls. Joseph Love does it many ways. Here, for example, a grey Nehru knit dress at left is topped with a persimmon "leather" poncho. At the right, the red cobbler jumper is teamed with a gold knit mini shift.

Elizabeth's datebook makes living like a queen hectic

LONDON (UPI) — Queen Elizabeth's datebook reads like no one else's anywhere.

Buckingham Palace statistics show she can expect in an average year to attend about 70 functions in different parts of Britain and also make one overseas trip.

She gives nearly 200 royal audiences, including a once weekly session with the prime minister whenever Parliament is in session. Foreign ambassadors, government ministers, armed service chiefs, bishops and principals of charitable organizations account for most of the rest.

In any one year she is apt to hold 16 meetings of the Privy Council, through which she exercises many of her powers and obtains advice.

At the palace she holds an average of 13 investitures to award accolades to new knights and other recipients of honors. At each of them she stands for more than two hours.

Again at the palace she holds four garden parties with 7,000 guests at each one, gives 28 formal lunch and dinner parties, and also entertains royal visitors at tea or cocktails.

On 11 occasions she will sit in one of the state rooms to pose for a photographer, an artist painting her portrait or a sculptor modeling her head.

She will attend about 70 functions outside the palace in different parts of Britain and make one overseas trip. She goes to nine movie benefits, concerts and variety shows.

In addition, Elizabeth has to deal with official and private correspondence daily and read and approve numerous state papers. She spends at least two hours at her desk, seven days a week.

Sometimes she economizes on her precious time by studying documents under the dryer as she gets her weekly hair set and manure in her palace dressing room. She has twice-monthly dress fittings for new clothes. Before an overseas tour, she usually devotes two entire days to wardrobe fittings.

Most mornings at the palace, the queen sees her housekeeper and her steward—he would be called the butler anywhere else—to deal with domestic matters and staff problems.

Only the tea-time hour is kept free whenever possible so she can see her children. She also tries to snatch brief periods with them between her many engagements during the day.

Prince Charles, 19, and Princess Anne, 17, join her in the private dining room for a quick working lunch when they are at home. The two younger princes, Andrew, 8, and Edward, 4, are still in the nursery.

For exercise in London the queen rarely gets more than 20 minutes' brisk walking with her Corgi dogs in the large wooded gardens of the palace.

On warm summer nights she tries to get another more leisurely walk in the open air before she goes to bed at midnight.

Weekends at Windsor Castle do give her more time for family life but even there her desk demands her each day and official callers still have to be met.

With a timetable like that, she always looks forward to getting away from it all on her unvarying summer vacation at Balmoral Castle in the Scottish Highlands. She goes in mid-August until early October.

Other New Jersey dealers include Erna Hattrin, Treasure Trove Antiques, Hainsport, with old dolls and New England primitives; Beatrice Peterson, Westwood, with authentic maps and prints from the 16th and 17th centuries; and Joseph N. ## Medics battle food fads

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The California Medical Association in a warning against "fantasies behind food fads," said proponents comprise a "sometimes amusing but often misleading and costly cult which has many followers."

The CMA said food fadists exploit a common yearning in all of us: We don't want to get sick, to grow old, to die.

But in pursuit of "simple, speedy and miraculous" solutions to health problems, the CMA warned, people are induced to rely on special food products which help no more than ordinary foods.

The CMA listed the following erroneous beliefs held by many: —Most disease is caused by improper diet. Actually, very few diseases are caused by dietary deficiencies, particularly in the United States. Our problem is more one of over-consumption.

—Our farmland has been depleted of necessary minerals and vitamins. On the contrary, the quality of the soil on which food is grown has very little effect on the quality of the crop (although it does affect the quantity).

—Chemical fertilizers take all the nutritional value out of crops and one should eat only "natural" foods produced by organic farming. In reality, the nutritional value of crops is not affected by fertilizers.

—Certain "wonder" foods have "wonder" powers. Most of those have good nutritional quality, but fall far short of the miracles claimed for them. For instance, some people cannot digest whole grains, bran and wheat germ and should avoid them. Commercial yoghurt is an expensive variation of milk and no more nourishing. Black strap molasses is a vastly over-rated source of vitamin B.

—Aluminum cooking utensils contaminate foods. There is no evidence that aluminum utensils have any harmful effect, according to statements by the American Cancer Society, the U.S. Public Health Service, and the American Medical Association's council on food and nutrition.

—Processing by the manufacturer robs food of its nutritional value. Actually, food processors go to great lengths to preserve and nutritional value of foods and sometimes even improve them.

Javits wavers on support

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. Jacob K. Javits expressed second thoughts Sunday on whether he will support the national Republican ticket.

"I want to support it, I hope to," Javits said, "but I want to take another breath in view of what I saw in Miami."

Javits voiced concern over the "Southern influence" in the party represented in the nomination of Maryland Gov. Spiro T. Agnew for vice-president.

He said the Nixon-Agnew ticket would force him to conduct a "more vigorous" campaign for re-election to the Senate.

Opening lead—eight of spades.

The study of card combinations—and how to deal with them—is very rewarding, but there is always the danger in a given hand of applying this knowledge in the wrong way.

For example, look at the North-South club combination in this hand. If declarer's only problem were to win four club tricks, he would do best in the long run by trying two finesses. This method of play succeeds whenever West has the king, the queen, or both honors.

However, under some circumstances, declarer may do better by adopting a different approach to the play. Here is such a case.

West leads a spade after East has bid the suit. Declarer plays the queen from dummy (if he plays the ten, East defeats him by playing the jack), and East is forced to win with the ace. East continues with the jack, ducked by South, and then the nine, won by the king.

Declarer has only eight sure tricks at this point, and his best chance for a ninth trick is obviously in clubs. But South realizes that if he follows the normal procedure and takes a club finesse, he will be defeated if East has either the king or the queen.

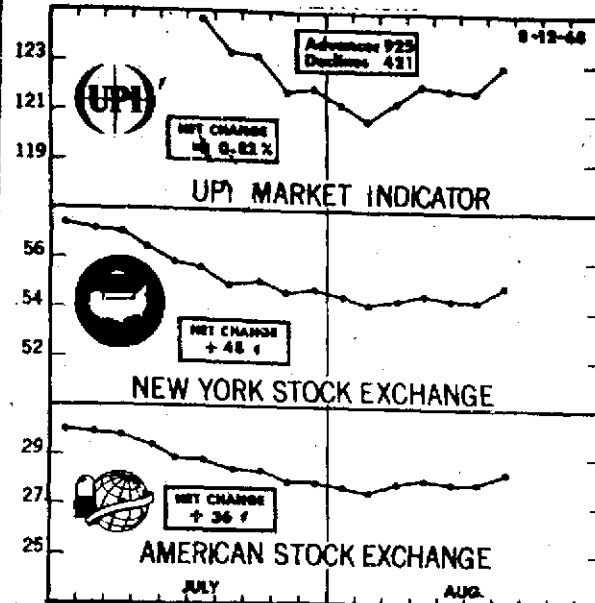

He therefore leads the jack of clubs and goes up with the ace after West follows low. As it happens, he catches the king and makes four notrump by forcing out the queen.

The basis for rejecting the club finesse is very sound. South reasons that he cannot make the contract if East has the guarded king or queen of clubs. His only practical chance is to play West for the K-Q or East for a singleton honor.

He therefore mentally assigns East a club holding that permits the contract to be made. Going up with the ace may give him the contract (if he is lucky), but cannot be the cause of losing it. The circumstances off him no other choice.

Gains widespread

Market gains sharply

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market scored its best gain in three months on Monday and did it without apparent rhyme or reason.

All groups did well—steels, oils and electronics were particularly strong—and a long list of individual features picked up really substantial gains, many of them responding to the stimulus of individual news developments.

Activity was not heavy but it did accelerate steadily as prices advanced and, at 10,420, 690 shares, was well above the 8,390,000-share turnover which made Friday the slowest session in more than four months.

Observers were just as hard put to explain the sudden market improvement as they have been to account for recent persistent declines.

Many referred to the market's strong technical position in view of sharply reduced turnover and narrowing price movement on recent declines, and said an advance of at least some substance, if not duration, was to be expected. Bargain hunting was obvious in some of the issues which have been sold most heavily in recent weeks.

There was virtually no hard news to account for the turn aside from record July retail store sales, improved July factory orders and attendant slowing of inventory accumulation.

There was continued reference to easing interest rates, with the possibility of cuts to come in discount and prime rates, and here and there talk of a growing "feeling" in Wall Street of nearing peace in Vietnam, this unsupported, however by anything in the dispatches from Paris.

For the market as a whole, measured by the UPI indicator which takes count of all issues traded, the gain amounted to 0.82 per cent. The New York Stock Exchange index showed a gain of 48 cents in the average common share price.

Of a total 1,539 issues traded, 925 were higher, 421 lower, 193 unchanged on the day. There were 56 new 1968 highs set, 16 new lows.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which reflects blue chip movement, ran up 11.37 to 881.02—its best rise since April 11. It was bolstered by gains of 1½ in Chrysler, 1½ Eastman Kodak 1½ General Foods, a point in Union Carbide, 2½ United Aircraft (helped by a dividend boost). The DJ rail average also closed higher, reflecting gains of 3½ in Northwest Industries, 2½, Seaboard Coast Line, 3 in Penn Central.

Steels were strong. Republic rose 1½, ex-dividend, Crucible and Jones & Laughlin over a point each. Among electronics, Burroughs, Control Data, Scientific Data, Honeywell, IBM, Sperry Rand, Litton, were featured with gains of a point to better than 5 points.

EVERYONE HAS MOLES

Moles usually follow this pattern. They are black or brown and flat. As time goes on they may become elevated and lighter in color. Some never change. Eventually most will slowly disappear, appearing to fade into the skin. Others may raise so high from the skin that they grow a small "stalk." Sometimes moles may darken, or grow hairs.

The vast majority of moles are benign. But any type of spot or blemish which itches, bleeds, becomes painful or suddenly changes in size, shape, or color is suspect. Show it to your physician.

Colleges compared by Morton

EAST STROUDSBURG—Last year one out of five Pennsylvania students attended a Pennsylvania state college, according to a recent brochure "Higher Education in Pennsylvania" co-authored by Paul W. Morton, public relations director of East Stroudsburg State College.

The report on the 13 state colleges emphasizes the apparent favoritism of "state-related" and "state-aided" institutions over state colleges in receiving per-student subsidies from the state.

The report lists the following facts in regards to the 13 state colleges:

Student fees contribute approximately 50 per cent of the total operation costs, with legislative appropriations the remainder.

Ninety-seven per cent of all students enrolled in the state colleges are native Pennsylvanians.

In a recent 10-year period, the state colleges increased their student enrollment by 218 per cent while the state-related and state-aided institutions experienced an increase of only 74 per cent.

At the same time, the per-student subsidy at state colleges rose from $541 to $802, whereas at state-related and state-aided institutions, the per-student subsidy rose from $1,016 to $1,384.

Unlike the state-related and state-supported college and universities, the state colleges are owned and operated by the Commonwealth.

The state colleges are not only "teacher-training institutions," but also offer complete programs in the arts and sciences and business administration, and are planning other programs of study in specialized areas such as governmental administration and medical technology.

In a summary of "project growth" of the state colleges, the brochure says that by 1975, the average enrollment at state colleges and universities will double, from today's 4,500 to tomorrow's 9,000.

East Stroudsburg State College's 1967-1968 student enrollment was 2,269, approximately 50 per cent below the brochure's 4,500 average enrollment for one of the 13 state colleges.

The 13 state colleges are, including ESSC, Mansfield, Bloomsburg, Kutztown, West Chester and Cheyney in the eastern part of the state; Lock Haven, Shippensburg and Millersville in the middle of the state and Edinboro, Clarion, Shippensburg and California in the far west.

Park commission mulls winter plan

STROUDSBURG — The teenagers of Stroudsburg's first ward need help.

The S.O.S. for the Negro youths in the borough's Third Street area was made to the Monroe County Recreation Commission Monday night by Claretta Tutson of Philadelphia, an instructor at the First Ward Playground.

Miss Tutson told commission members that the teenagers in the Third Street area need "a place to go" and suggested that the First Ward Playground building be opened in winter for use by the teenagers.

She said that the teenagers need a place to do their homework, for some peace and quiet "because their homes are not what they should be."

She told commission members that Stroudsburg Police Chief John B. Trelhaway "goes for the idea." She also said that if the teenagers could use the park building as a clubhouse, "the county would know where they are."

She added that the salary for a director to supervise the youngsters in the "clubhouse" may not be as high as sending a youth to a state school or the price of one-half dozen broken plate glass windows.

An eight year resident of Philadelphia, where she is a nurse, Miss Tutson said that the Negro youths here have the same ideas as those in Philadelphia's ghettos, but that the local Negro youths "don't have a leader."

Commission members said they would take the suggestion under advisement.

Commission members also decided to seek bids for the erection of a six-foot fence around the swimming pool to prevent adults and dogs from using the pool at night.

Henry Hoffman, chairman, reported that all problems connected with construction of the West End Park recreation facilities have been resolved.

Douglas Williams said that drainage lines had been rearranged and water seepage facilities corrected. A septic tank will have to be installed at the West End Park, however.

Blood drive nets 95 pints

STROUDSBURG — A Red Cross Blood Drive sponsored by Radio Station WVPG on Monday in the Stroudsburg First Presbyterian Church netted 95 pints of blood.

A total of 106 potential donors volunteered to give their blood, but 11 were deferred. Among the donors were five prisoners from the Monroe County Jail, three of whom were deferred.

The quota for the drive was set at 125 pints.

Price Twp. to discuss garbage

WOODDALE — Suggested ordinances for the control of garbage and refuse dumping and establishment of sanitary landfill junkyards will be discussed by the Price Township Supervisors at their September 5 meeting.

Secretary Stanley Newman said Monday that the Planning Commission, at its recent meeting, submitted to the supervisors proposals for the controls.

Newman said no official action is contemplated at the September meeting. He added that before supervisors take any action, they would have to advertise an intent to adopt an ordinance.

Planning Commission members during their meeting also held an informal discussion on penal institutions. Commission member Lester Brush said the discussion was prompted due to the controversy in the State Belt over the construction of a Youth Development Center.

Man jailed on threat

STROUDSBURG — Two men were committed to Monroe County Jail, one for non-support and the other for assault and battery and threatening to kill.

Wilbur Learn of Stroudsburg, R.D. 2, is charged with assault and battery and threatening to kill. The charges were made by Hilda Learn of the same address. Bail is set at $1,000.

Comedy hit at playhouse

Inter-racial council moves to investigate housing bias

STROUDSBURG — The Monroe County Inter-Racial Council agreed to invite area real estate personnel and members of Monroe County home development firms to discuss possible discrimination in these fields during the council's Sept. 18 meeting.

Four main platform planks were offered for discussion during Monday's meeting in the Stroudsburg Methodist Church.

Council chairman Rev. John Bendik named the four planks.

They are correcting any area discrimination; ironing out specific problems relating to prejudice in housing, jobs, etc.; promoting better racial understanding among all county citizens and correcting existing abuses and a growing fellowship between various segments in the community.

The Council discussed alleged discrimination of white barbers in Monroe County not wanting to cut Negro's hair out of fear of losing their steady white customers.

Rev. Bendik said certain barbers had told him that they will cut Negro's hair because they're afraid of losing their license if they refuse to give a Negro a haircut. But they also fear if they cut Negro's hair, they'll lose their white customers, Rev. Bendik added.

He termed this thinking by the barbers "stupid and sad."

An audio-visual documentary on alleged county prejudice will be made by the social action committee of MCIRC and shown to the Monroe County Commissioners and the four area high schools, according to Rev. John Nesbitt, chairman of the social action committee.

Council member Peter Cohen asked if the Pocono Mountain resorts will be investigated for alleged prejudice.

Rev. Nesbitt said a whole chapter will be devoted to the resort industry.

Council secretary Alice Patterson told about eight Negro youths working at Unity House in Bushkill. When the youths were ready to return to their home in Georgia they had no money for the bus trip and had to spend a night in jail until the bus fare back home could be collected for them.

Commenting on the question of alleged prejudice among area barbers, Rev. Nesbitt suggested that the social committee ask the barber's union representative to come to a future council meeting and discuss the barber's policy in cutting or not cutting Negro's hair.

Council felt that if the union representative didn't want to appear at a future meeting, then white members of the council could visit a local barber shop with a Negro who would ask for a haircut.

Council heard from a spectator who told council members that a Monroe County barber had said he had no trouble with one Negro who had come in for a haircut. The barber told the Negro he didn't know how to cut hair. The Negro still wanted a haircut. The barber "cut the Negro's hair and then said, to the spectator 'That Negro won't ever come back to my shop, not after the haircut I gave him.'"

Council plans to arrange for a guest speaker at September's meeting. Judge Albert Murray from Brooklyn's Bedford Stuyvesant area.

Council member Howard Best suggested that Stroudsburg's Mayor Joseph B. Small, police chief John B. Trothway and other local officials attend council's next meeting.

Council member Arturo

Sobrino of Stroudsburg told the members of his reception by a neighbor when he first moved into the borough.

A month after we moved in, Sobrino said, my neighbor came over and told me in a most friendly way that he was not afraid of the atom bomb but instead people like me "who breathe our air, drink out water and whose children go to our schools."

Pocono Mountain expands computer training course

SWIFTWATER — A computer training course at Pocono Mountain Junior-Senior High School will be expanded this year, according to Dr. William F. Nye, district superintendent.

Last year, Pocono Mountain's business department experimented with a 10-week data processing unit, which was incorporated into an existing practice class. Eight weeks were devoted to unit training, including hands-on equipment instruction, which was provided through the rental of a mobile van containing key punch, accounting machine and sorter.

Class interest ran high, since six of the 28 seniors in the course intend to continue studies in this area upon graduation from high school.

This year's project will be designed to determine whether enough computer training can be given in the short period of six weeks to provide students with sufficient knowledge of computer programming to permit them to learn whether they have an aptitude for further study in this field.

The project's other objective is to learn whether it is feasible to purchase computer time from a local business, which will necessitate scheduling such instruction after regular school time, either in the evenings or on Saturdays.

Students will be taught the functions performed by the computers, the various types of computers, the job opportunities available in the field, and the amount of education required to fill these positions.

The student will be able to write several basic programs for the 360-26 computer. The school's closed circuit TV will be used to teach the mechanics of the computer. An overhead projector will aid in speeding up the learning process and also give students as much visual training as possible.

Students will be taken to an East Stroudsburg business firm on two Saturdays, from 9 a.m. to 12 noon, to test their programs on the computer. About 40-45 students will be enrolled in this course.

Brodt head of Portland rec board

PORTLAND—Neil Brodt of Portland was elected chairman of the Portland Recreation Board during an organizational meeting Monday night in the borough hall.

Jack Bellis was named co-chairman and Gerald Zeman, secretary. The other three members on the board are Walter Davidge, Metro Flank, and Karl Rice, advisor.

Brodt said that the Recreation Board will start an intramural basketball league for local youths. The league will be in two age groups, one for youngsters eight to 13 years old and the other from 14 years and up. The league will consist of four teams from each age group.

The league, Brodt said, is scheduled to begin December 1. The recreation board will now recruit youngsters for the league.

Brodt emphasized that youths from Portland and vicinity can participate in the league.

Witnesses plan for assembly

EAST STROUDSBURG — Personnel of Jehovah's Witnesses met Monday night in the East Stroudsburg, Kingdom Hall of Jehovah's Witnesses in connection with the coming circuit assembly of Pennsylvania Circuit Number Two to be held in Phillipsburg, N. J., September 13 to 15.

Commenting on the preparation for the convention, Stephen Borlik, presiding minister of the East Stroudsburg Congregation said, "Since the beginning, Jehovah's Witnesses have been a preaching fellowship. The faith of each believing Christian in the organization is tested by his participation in the most important activity the preaching of the "good news of the Kingdom."

"For that reason the organization provides a continuous training program of activity. A featured part of that program is the three-day conference of Jehovah's Witnesses, scheduled at Phillipsburg, N. J.," he added.

The meeting was attended by 40 presiding and assistant ministers of Jehovah's Witnesses from the 16 congregations of Pennsylvania

Circuit Number Two. Presiding over the meeting was the circuit supervisor, Lawrence A. Held, Sr., of Brooklyn, N.Y.

At this meeting, Held detailed plans for setting up some 20 convention departments which according to Borlik, are normally used at all our conventions to facilitate smooth operation and provide essential things.

The principal Bible talk of the assembly will be Sunday, Sept. 15, at 3 p.m. on the subject, "God's Way Is Love." All sessions are free and the public is invited.

Oilers take Jets; Namath watches

HOUSTON (UPI) — Pete Beathard tossed three touchdown passes, two of them 15 and 66 yards to speedy Charlie Frazier in the third period, to send the Houston Oilers past the New York Jets 28-14 Monday night in an American Football League exhibition game.

The Jets played without the services of quarterback Joe Namath, who sat out the contest because of tendonitis of the left knee. He was replaced by veteran Babe Parilli, who threw two touchdown passes of his own.

Houston had to come from a touchdown behind.

STROUDSBURG — About 55 boys have signed up as candidates for the 1968 football team at Stroudsburg High School, head coach Andy Silock said Monday.

Silock said some of the boys have already received their physical examinations and the Minnesota Twins' second baseman Rod Carew, American League batting leader, concentrates on whacking the ball during batting practice before the Twins-Senators game Monday in Minneapolis. Carew leads the American League at .305, the only .300 hitter in the league. (UPI Telephoto)

Pascual outpitches Twins in Washington victory

ST. PAUL — MINNEAPOLIS (UPI)—Camilo Pascual threw a five-hitter at the Minnesota Twins and singled in a run Monday night in outpitching Jim Kaat and pitching the Washington Senators to a 2-0 victory.

The veteran right-hander, who gained his 11th victory against six losses, struck out three, walked one and retired 17 Twins on grounders.

Pascual drove in the second Washington run in the ninth inning following a leadoff single by Bernie Allen off Al Worthington and a sacrifice by Ed Brinkman.

The Senators broke a scoreless deadlock in the sixth when Ken McMullen, Frank Howard and Brant Alyea stroked successive singles, loading the bases with none out, and Cap Peterson, batting for Tim Cullen, lofted a one-out sacrifice fly.

COUNTRY COUSINS GO TO TOWN!

In order to provide even better, more efficient service, Country Cousins Realty Sales, Inc. have opened a new office at 37 N. 6th St., in Stroudsburg. This new facility centrally locates all phases of their Operation Division under Mr. Charles Locke, Operations Manager and Associate Broker. Directly responsible for mortgage arrangements, coordination of closings, rental management and appraisals, this division is now conveniently located to handle these important phases of the Country Cousins Realty Sales general real estate work.

The Sales Division under the guidance of Ray Roberts, Sales Manager and Broker, will continue in the well known "Exit 52 of Route 80" location in Minsink Hills. There, Sales Personnel under Mr. Roberts' supervision will continue their expanding growth of sales activities. All ranch office activities will be continued as part of the "Sales Arm" of the area's largest real estate firm.

Explaining the reasons for this expansion, Mr. Locke said "because of the heavy volume of sales and the dedication we have to provide a complete real estate service, this new office will be a key function in providing convenience to attorneys, banks and insurance firms as proximity to country offices. Part of the office format provides a "closing room" for out of town attorneys, bank officers and a handy location for our rapidly growing rental management services. Mr. Rankin, our Rental Supervisor, will be located in this office for that purpose. Appraisal work can be most conveniently and expeditiously handled from this new facility."

Mr. Roberts, Sales Manager, explained the benefits that will be derived by the Sales Division.

"First of all, we will gain additional and more effective use of office space in our present office. We will have a more effective and better appointed Sales Conference facility using the new color photo "Parade of Properties" presentation. Sales personnel will have more expansive sales offices and we can now house our additional staff members. With the growth of our Branch Office operations, we can centrally direct sales efforts and through our new Operations Office in Stroudsburg, better coordinate the activities beyond the "sale" of a property. Our sales are increasing annually with this year's sales almost $250,000 ahead of last year's sales. We need and must continue to provide the type of mechanics to allow us to provide the very best in service to our expanding and valued clients who are the basis of our valued reputation."

JACK O'BRIAN'S

New York's Voice of Broadway

NEW YORK — Katherine Hepburn spends her between-acting moments on "Madwoman of Chaillot" finding flaws in the background and bothering the director to keep everything perfect; claims she's "not an actress, just a born assistant director"; and a glamorous bolder... Darryl Zanuck's not superstitious—his license plate is DFZ-13... Groucho Marx once admired a lovely young lass at a H'wood pool and was warned: "Groucho! She's only 13!"... Groucho wagged his eyebrows and replied, "I'm not superstitious." Conductor of the Minneapolis Symphony sports a marquee-defier; his name's Stanislaw Skrowaczewski... Gesundheit... "They" say when the next Oscars are voted, Fred Astaire in "Finian's Rainbow" will be a shoe-in... Toffenetti's Bdw. & 43rd front window has a tattered "Closed for Alterations" sign that's been there more than a year; it's closed, period.

Kim Novak said she isn't entirely nude in her obligatory sex-scene for the "Lylah Clare" film: "I carry a rose in one hand..."... Elvis Presley's next is a Western—and he won't sing a note... and no cracks please that he never could.

If Ted Sorenson's been making noises more like a candidate than a political adviser, it's because of the 1970 race for Bobby Kennedy's Senate seat... It's a great psychological study, watching Gov. Rockefeller and Mayor Lindsay on TV every time a TV reporter asks either about the other... Neither can cloak the deep-down dislike.

Never heard of actor Lee Van Cleef? He makes $250,000 a flick (for his latest Italian gun-drama "The Big Gundown"); played villains exclusively in H'wood and had to go to Rome "to be on my feet at the finish of a film."

South American singer Nelson Sordelli explains how much his landmen love blondes: "In Rio, even Phyllis Diller is a sex symbol"... Starting at the Latin Quarter, it's not Nelson's first N.Y. invasion: he worked here once before for six months—as a cabdriver... All of Coca-Cola's Arab plants (about 40) now are closed because of its Nassar's nutty anti-Israel embargoes.

Copacabana comic Pat Henry

once was janitor of a building down street from stylish cellar he's now starring in... New jet set status symbol: Chinese chauffeurs... Sen. Jake Javits' secretary Betty Moul ran a Christmas in July party in Churchill's Plum and collected a truckful of toys for the kids in the late Dr. Tom Dooley's Saigon orphanage... The long-hollered English Channel tunnel will be ready in '76 (That's the spirit!)

Oh, these dissipating American Dolce Vita types: comic Bill Cosby's secretary called the Warwick Hotel here from H'wood to reserve ("Make sure, please!") a suite for 10 days and please have ready for Bill "on arrival, six Cokes on ice."

The Duchess of Windsor's 50 bags aboard ship to Europe contained a bundle of frocks below $50... To wear around their French place, up for sale at one million American bucks... Before thrush Helen O'Connell got famous with Jimmy Dorsey's band, she was the unknown singer on a nightclub bill (The Village Barn) with a chic dance team, Loper & Barrett, Helen's now at the chic Rainbow Grill atop Radio City, all her evening gowns are designed by the same dancing gent, Don Loper.

Sarah Churchill's three books have been British best-sellers; she's finishing her fourth and the gal really can write; inherited more of her pop Sir Winston's ways with a phrase than her late brother Randolph.

Publisher Eric P. Swenson is losing patience with Shirley MacLaine: he's been trying three years to get her finished biography but each time she demands it back; redrafted it three times and so far it's had seven titles... Shirley owes her film career to the late Carol Haney's lifelong tragic problem — a diabetes victim. Carol was out of her star role in "Pajama Game" just one night—the one night producer Hal Wallis saw the show to decide if he would sign Carol for his next movie... Chorus girl MacLaine was in the role that one night and the rest is history of a sort sophisticated deride in real life.

Ann Landers

It's only skin deep

Dear Ann Landers: My sister has entered her 15-year-old daughter in a beauty contest and it is making us all sick. Bettylou is built like a Swedish 20-year-old. If you get the picture, she gets A's from the men teachers and is flunked by the women teachers. I hope you get THAT picture, too. All the emphasis has been on looks and figure and sex appeal and the poor kid is going to end up a professional party girl of something isn't done to open her mother's eyes.

Last night we were at my sister's house for dinner. There were 10 of us present—all family. My sister said, "Honey, why don't you model the bathing suit you're going to wear in the contest? It will be good practice walking."

In five minutes Bettylou was sashaying through the living room in a bikini that didn't have 50c worth of material in it. My brother-in-law, Herman almost swallowed his dentures which surprised me because Bessie (his wife) has been referring to him as "my dead battery" for the last 10 years.

I like beauty as well as the next person, but I don't see anything beautiful about a 15-year-old girl showing her behind to the whole world. Please print this letter so my sister can see it. She'll know it's for her and I hope it helps.

—DORIS

Dear Doris: Here's the letter but don't expect it to change anybody's mind. I feel sorry for any girl whose brains are in her bikini. Obviously Bettylou's mother has encouraged her along these lines and one day the chickens will come home to roost.

Dear Ann: Your frankness is refreshing and I admit I enjoy it when you tell a reader off. Now, perhaps it is my turn to get told off, and I hope you will not spare the horses if you think I have it coming.

Teddy and I have been married 11 years. We have no children. Teddy is a good husband and I am trying my damndest to be a good wife.

His job has brought him to this foreign country which I hope you will not name because I wouldn't want to insult the people. Teddy signed up to stay here 18 months. Four months have passed and I am so miserable I could die. I can't speak the language. The climate is wretched. Living conditions are primitive. The food is dreadful. The prices are high. The people are not friendly.

The latest winner of the Gen. Thomas D. White Space Trophy is Gen. John Paul McDonnell, who worked on re-entry systems for precise return of astronauts from space.

I have considered going back home, getting a job and saving some money. Teddy has begged me to stay. I should tell you he is very attractive and the women here have that look in their eyes when they talk to him at social gatherings.

What should I do?

—NEED YOUR WISDOM

Dear Need: Some people don't know when they've got it good, Lady. You should read the letters I get from wives whose husbands are fighting the war in a neighboring country. They would give their eye teeth to be there with them—in the "wretched" climate, eating "dreadful" food and paying

Cartwright mellows with years on TV show

By LORNE GREENE
Written for The Associated Press

Ben Cartwright, like old wine, has mellowed and is a lot easier to live with now that we're starting our 10th year of "Bonanza" on NBC-TV. I have continued to maintain my interest because the character never ceases to surprise me. I don't get tired of him any more than you would of an old friend.

In "Bonanza" the circumstances change, but the characters remain the same. When the circumstances are dull and you've been through them four or five times, then you mine your mind, spirit, heart and and remembrances of the past to bring something new to the scene. It's a constant challenge.

I'm asked if I ever get tired of Ben Cartwright. After all, I know him better than anyone. Yes. Sometimes I say, "I wish he wasn't such a goody-goody." I wish they'd let me make a mistake sometimes. Ben Cartwright is always the paragon of everything good. But, I'm still continually finding new facets of his character. Hopefully, I look for the author to help, but if he doesn't, I search myself.

I've changed Ben Cartwright over the years. When we first started in 1959, over 468 episodes ago he was a rather tyrannical patriarch who quoted from the Bible and shot a gun at will—a man who was jealous of his land.

Anytime a stranger arrived he was asked, "What are you doing on the Ponderosa?"

We changed that because it seemed to me in those days, the only really outside communication came from visitors. My thought was to ask, "Hey, come on in. Stay four or five days. relieve our monotony and tell us what's going on in the world."

So, Ben Cartwright changed and became much more friendly and I think it helped the show.

I'm also stimulated by people with whom I work. You get men like Dan Blocker and Michael Landon, with whom you probably spend more time than we do with our individual families, and you're stimulated.

Sometimes we're stimulated by the fact that the show opposite us may get a good rating and we say, "By gosh, let's do a better job."

But, I think the thing that captures my interest more than anything else is the people I meet. I travel a great deal. People by the thousands come up and shake my hand and tell me what they think of the show and how, in many cases, it has affected their lives.

We're seen in 79 countries, in 17 foreign languages, by over 400 million people each week.

When I get off the plane in Rome the porter yells, "Signor Bonanza," and in Spain it's "Papa Bonanza."

It's a wonderful thing to know that "Bonanza" is not being shown behind closed doors in a barrel. It's being seen and people like it and that stimulates me and makes me feel alive.

We're an accepted member of the community wherever we travel.
